LINDA JOHNSON LAUNCHES NEW CONSULTING NETWORK

KANSAS CITY, MO, Dec. 4, 2008 – Linda Johnson, most recently SVP of Business Development for The Elliot Leadership Institute, has launched a new firm focused on connecting foodservice and hospitality companies with leading consulting resources.

Business Solutions Network is designed to help operators and suppliers meet their ongoing business needs without increasing head count. The Network includes outstanding independent business consultants with different strategic specialties.

“We only are only including gold-standard firms offering senior level expertise,” said Linda Johnson. “From people practices to public affairs, we have best-in-class solutions for a wide variety of challenges facing businesses today.”

The services available through members of the network include public affairs, crisis management, communications, human resource consulting, strategic planning, training, leadership development, organizational assessments, executive coaching, life coaching, mergers & acquisitions, executive benefits, keynote speeches, transition preparation, and business development. From small projects to enterprise concerns, only experienced experts will be recommended to meet your needs.
